HOW TO BREAK INTO ARBITRATION: USEFUL RESOURCES FOR STUDENTS AND YOUNG PRACTITIONERS

By Mark Kantor¹

There are excellent resources for students and young practitioners interested in arbitration, but they are scattered across the Web. This list is intended to be a one-stop detailed reference, and includes links to young arbitration groups; arbitration websites; publications and podcasts; moots; Who's Who lists; law firm newsletters; law schools with specialized international arbitration programs; arbitration blogs and online discussion groups; and arbitration centres and events. The list focuses on international arbitration, not more general dispute resolution, and we have limited inclusion accordingly. The list cannot be exhaustive, although we have tried hard. We apologize in advance for inadvertent omissions, and we invite any organization to contact us about inclusion of inadvertently omitted links.

This resource is the product of a collaborative effort between students of the Georgetown International Arbitration Society (“GIAS”) and members of the DC Bar International Dispute Resolution Committee. GIAS is a non-profit association at the Georgetown University Law Center of students and lawyers who are dedicated to the promotion of international arbitration and dispute settlement, created in 2008 to facilitate discussion between students, academics and practitioners on issues concerning international arbitration. To learn more, e-mail the leadership at (guas@law.georgetown.edu). You should also consider attending events sponsored by the DC Bar’s International Dispute Resolution Committee. You can be added to the distribution list for further events by sending an email to co-chairs Jean Kalicki (jean_kalicki@aporter.com) Prof. Marsha Echols (howardprofessor@gmail.com) or Mark Kantor (mkantor@mark-kantor.com).

Young Arbitration Groups

Below are links to a number of international arbitration groups catering to students and junior practitioners. Almost all of them are free to join.

ArbitralWomen

Anyone may take advantage of the website for ArbitralWomen (<http://www.arbitralwomen.org>), but women would particularly benefit by becoming members. In addition to providing mentoring, the group holds networking meetings and social gatherings, often on the sidelines of other arbitration conferences. ArbitralWomen have also just established an ArbitralWomen Award, which aims to support young lawyers from developing countries and promote the advancement of women in arbitration and other forms of dispute resolution.

Publications, Podcasts and Websites

Global Arbitration Review (<http://www.globalarbitrationreview.com>) - You can sign up for free “breaking news” e-mail alerts from Global Arbitration Review, a bi-monthly journal, as well as subscribing.

Investment Treaty News (<http://www.investmenttreatynews.org>) - This periodic e-mail briefing covers cases and treaty developments in the area of investment treaty arbitration. It is a service of the International Institute for Sustainable Development (IISD). IISD is an NGO that is often very critical of the system of investment and trade treaties, including investment arbitration. Its weekly update is an excellent (if mildly biased) source of news.

Investment Arbitration Reporter (<http://www.iareporter.com>) is a “by subscription” specialised news publication tracking developments in the area of international investment law. You can sign up for free “breaking news” email alerts.

At Transnational Dispute Management (<http://www.transnational-dispute-management.com/members/articles/welcome.asp>), an online journal, you can sign up for free e-mail alerts and news digests (<http://www.transnational-dispute-management.com/news/tdmnewsdigest.htm>). In addition, you can learn about OGEMID and YOUNG-OGEMID, very active e-mail discussion lists. YOUNG-OGEMID is aimed in particular at young professionals. You can subscribe to TDM for a fee, but it may be available through your law library. Participation on OGEMID requires a TDM subscription, but participation on Young-OGEMID is not similarly restricted.

You can sign up for Arbitrage-ADR, the French arbitration discussion list.

You can join (<http://www.ciarb.org/joining-us>) as an associate, which is not the same as a member, but Associate-level participation is being rethought right now to make it more accessible to young lawyers. The CI Arb runs a number of easily accessible London-based events. CI Arb has a number of regional branches (see <http://www.ciarb.org/branches/>), some of which also have their own websites. For example, the North American Branch website is here - <http://www.internationalarbitrators.org/>.

National Law School of India University International Arbitration Moot Court Competition (<http://www.nls.ac.in/interarbimootcourt.htm>)

The Willem C. Vis International Commercial Arbitration Moot – The Willem C. Vis International Commercial Arbitration Moot is the premier arbitration competition for law students. Year 2009-10 marked the seventeenth year for Vienna (<http://www.cisg.law.pace.edu/vis.html>) and the 7th year in Hong Kong. (<http://www.cisgmoot.org>). Teams from law schools from all countries are eligible. The Vis Moot involves a dispute arising out of a contract of sale between two countries that are party to the United Nations Convention on Contracts for the International Sale of Goods. The contract provides that any dispute that might arise is to be settled by arbitration in "Danubia", a country that has enacted the UNCITRAL Model Law on International Commercial Arbitration and is a party to the Convention on the Recognition and Enforcement of Foreign Arbitral Awards. The arbitral rules to be applied rotate yearly among the arbitration rules of co-sponsors of the Moot. Participants in the Vis can later become members of the Moot Alumni Association (the MAA). (<http://www.maa.net>). The MAA publishes the Vindobona Journal, provides members of the Board of the CISG review, sponsors conferences, has observer status at UNCITRAL for the ongoing revisions to the UNCITRAL Arbitration Rules and throws great parties.

The Foundation for International Arbitration Advocacy (www.fiaa.com) runs a series of hands-on advocacy training workshops in Switzerland, on topics including witness examination, cross-examination, oral argument and written advocacy.

The Centre of Arbitration and Conciliation of the Chamber of Commerce of Bogotá offers a Specialized Course on International Arbitration as part of its School of International Arbitration (<http://www.cacccb.org.co/ingles/contenido/contenido.aspx?catID=165&conID=530>). The Specialized Course on International Arbitration is aimed at Latin American lawyers between the ages of 30 and 45 years with an interest and experience in the area of international commercial arbitration.

La Competencia Internacional de Arbitraje Comercial (http://www.urosario.edu.co/jurisprudencia/III-Competencia_Internacional_de_Arbitraje/ur/Presentacion.aspx) is an international arbitration moot competition organized jointly by the law schools of the University of Buenos Aires (Argentina) and the Universidad del Rosario (Colombia). Almost thirty teams from different countries (including Argentina, Colombia, Perú, Chile and Uruguay, among others) participated in 2009's competition, and the organizers expect the event will continue growing. The competition is similar to the Vis Moot. The written memoranda and the oral hearings are conducted in Spanish.

Who's Who Lists

The purpose of including these links is not to endorse any particular law firms or lawyers, or the rankings in these lists, but solely to provide useful information to students and young lawyers.

You can learn about individual arbitration practitioners and firms with strong arbitration practices on various lists of prominent practitioners; among others, Who's Who Legal (<http://www.whoswholegal.com/>), Chambers & Partners (<http://www.chambersandpartners.com/>), Best Lawyers (<http://www.bestlawyers.com/>), Legal 500 (http://www.legal500.com) and Global Arbitration Review 100 (<http://www.globalarbitrationreview.com/surveys/survey/156/GAR-100>). FYI, subscribers see all of the lawyers listed in Best Lawyers. Non-subscribers see only the names of lawyers who have purchased links to their firm pages.

Law Schools with Specialized International Arbitration Programs

This list of schools is intended to cover those that have specializations in international arbitration, and cannot be exhaustive. We welcome suggestions about other law school international arbitration programs to include. Of course, there are a large number of extraordinary LL.M and other legal education programs worldwide where students can obtain a valuable education covering inter alia international arbitration, even without specialized programs in the field. See, for example, the programs listed at LLM Guide: Master of Laws Programs Worldwide (<http://www.llm-guide.com/>), LLMStudy.com (<http://www.llmstudy.com/>), LLM Uniiks (<http://llm.uniiks.com/>) and the ABA Section on International Law Student Headquarters (<http://www.abanet.org/intlaw/students/llm.html>). By no means are we suggesting that a program specializing in international arbitration is a requisite for success in this field.
